Fluoridation Stirs Penticton Meet

PENTICTON (CP)—A motion on fluoridation sparked spirited debate Friday at the closing session of the three-day convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The motion asked the 1,100 delegates, municipal leaders from across the province, to seek changes in provincial legislation which would permit a municipality to fluoridate community water supplies if a simple majority of the voters approve of the plan.

Under existing regulations such a plebiscite must have a 60 per cent approval.

Alderman G. G. Reynolds of Port Alberni immediately launched into a bitter attack on fluoridation, terming it "an infringement of human rights."

Ald. Reynolds said six fluoridation referenda were defeated recently and now, by trying to reduce the required majority, its proponents were again attempting to promote it.

"I ask you to remember that I don't like it," he said.

SHOULD BE DELETED

"We should remove this (fluoridation) from the act completely instead of reducing the approval to 50 per cent," Ald. Reynolds said. Introduction of fluoridation into community water systems was "undemocratic" to opponents.

Session chairman Reeve P. Jenewein of Maple Ridge reminded delegates they were discussing the machinery of implementing fluoridation—not the merits of fluoridation.

Councillor R. J. Whittle of North Vancouver, the district sponsoring the motion, said the present legislation was undemocratic to district residents.

The municipality had approved a plebiscite favoring fluoridation but since the municipality received its water from the district, it was "impractical" to fluoridate one and not the other, he said.

Mayor H. W. Buckle of Kimberley, saying he was speaking neither for nor against fluoridation, cautioned municipal councils to beware of the mistakes they can make by getting "tied up in such an issue."

In a hotly debated campaign two years ago, the residents of his city voted in favor of fluoridation. But in the campaign factural cost estimates had been ignored. The cost of the approved program was subsequently found to be extremely high, and the program was proceeding at a much slower, step by step rate than originally anticipated.

Primate Extends Car Tour With Surprise Cariboo Stops

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury prolonged his motor tour of the British Columbia Cariboo Country Friday with unscheduled stops in Quesnel, where he led school children in impromptu roadside prayers and capped this day by giving them a half holiday.

The motorcade of Archbishop Dr. Michael Ramsey was not scheduled to stop at Quesnel on the 300 mile drive from Prince George to here.

But as his car approached Quesnel about 60 miles south of Prince George, the Archbishop saw about 70 school children who had gathered at the roadside to watch him drive past.

He ordered his car to halt and when he emerged the children crowded to his side. Together they recited the Lord's Prayer.

Before the Archbishop had left Quesnel he had made similar stops at four other schools.

At the third school Dr. Ramsey was so delighted with the reception he received from the youngsters he dispatched an RCMP officer to check the idea of a half holiday with Douglas Feir, the Quesnel school superintendent. The superintendent agreed.

ARRIVE LATE

The Archbishop and Mrs. Ramsey arrived late for a civic luncheon in Williams Lake, but he delighted about 200 civic dignitaries by nicknaming the community "Billy's Pond."

The Archbishop was given a painting on sheep skin, done by a local artist and Mrs. Ramsey received a vase made by the Williams Lake Art Club.

Screaming Mob In Congo Burns Portuguese Embassy

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—A screaming mob of Africans sacked and burned the Portuguese embassy today and manhandled its chief diplomat and two other Portuguese.

The government radio said the mob of about 200 was made up of Angolans, exiles from the neighboring Portuguese colony of Angola.

Lt.-Col. Bangala, the Kinshasa military governor, said the three Portuguese were injured by the mob and taken to a hospital. They were discharged after treatment.

In Lisbon, Portuguese officials condemned the attack on the embassy as a brutal and savage act. They contended it probably had the blessing of the Congolese government.

Portugal has accused The Congo of harboring Angolan rebels and relations have been cool.

Most of the rioters fled as Congolese police converged on the burning three-story building. Papers, passports and photographs smoldered on the floor of the consular section and the interiors of two cars outside were burned. Smashed furniture, books and dishes littered the floors.

Gunman Fells Two Youths

WINNIPEG (CP)—Two youths suffered gunshot wounds early today when a man opened fire after asking them to get out of their car in the Winnipeg suburb of East Kildonan.

Police Chief Chris Enfield of East Kildonan said the youths were sprayed with pellets from a 16-gauge shotgun when the man fired two shots from a distance of about 50 feet.

Robert Scott Anthony, 18, of Winnipeg was felled when he was hit by about 40 pellets in the back. He was described as in fairly good condition in hospital.

Edwin Carl Tuchonowski, 19, of East Kildonan ran nearly a half mile after being hit by 13 pellets in his legs. Police said he was also hit in the left arm. Taken to hospital, his condition was described as fair.

Pigtailed Girls Flee Red Guards

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Girl students from North Viet Nam had to run the gauntlet of Chinese Red Guards who tried to snip off their pig tails, a Moscow newspaper reported today.

Komsomolskaya Pravda's Peking correspondent, said the militant guards gave chase because the pig tails seemed strange in the context of China's "great proletarian cultural revolution."

Members of the family began going down with the stomach complaint soon after arriving at the holiday camp. Harrison himself escaped illness.

But in the meantime game wardens that the RSPCA was investigating the condition of his cats. On top of that the friend back home reported that Lassie had vanished after bolting out the door.

His wife, Maud, said neighbors had told the RSPCA that the Harrisons left the cats without food.

"It's just too silly," she said. "They are farm cats, not pets. Even when we are home we don't feed them. I think it was just our graves on the part of some neighbors."

Left behind at his cottage home in Lancashire were the three cats. A friend promised to look after Lassie.

Motorcycle Men Ordered to Pay $3,050 in Fines

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Eight men, members of a former motorcycle club, were given fines ranging from $300 to $500 here Friday after conviction on charges of common assault, assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, obstructing police, wilful damage and causing a disturbance.

The fines totalled $3,050. The men were convicted on 17 of 22 charges laid following two skirmishes with RCMP here Aug. 6.

Pat Dohm, the Crown prosecutor, asked for heavy fines because such incidents "should be nipped in the bud." He said the disturbances were witnessed by more than 100 persons, many of them young people.

CHARGED WITH SWEARING

Curtis Best, 20, was fined $300 or one month imprisonment on a charge of causing a disturbance by swearing and placed on two years suspended sentence and ordered to forfeit his driver's licence on a charge of resisting arrest.

Joseph Albert Rene Lamarche, 20, was fined $500 or three months on a charge of resisting arrest and placed on a two-year suspended sentence on charges of assault causing bodily harm and obstructing a police officer. He was also ordered to forfeit his driver's licence.

Brian Plunket, 23, was fined $350 or one month on a charge of obstructing a police officer. He was also placed on probation for one year.

Those who received suspended sentences were placed on their own recognisance at $1,000.

Terrance Sypher was fined $350 or one month in jail on a charge of causing a disturbance by shouting and placed on 18 months suspended sentence on charges of assaulting two police officers. He, too, was ordered to forfeit his driver's licence.

Theodore Wallace Grant, 25, was fined $350 or one month for causing a disturbance by shouting. Michael Patrick McElgunn, 19, was fined $350 or two months for common assault.

$500 FINE

Larry Allen Bogetti, 19, was fined $500 or three months on a charge of assaulting a police officer and placed on two years suspended sentence and ordered to forfeit his driver's licence on a charge of assault causing bodily harm. He pleaded guilty on both charges.

Ronald Darryl Smith was fined $350 or two months on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and placed on two years probation and ordered to forfeit his driver's licence on a charge of obstructing.

Brian Plunket, 23, was fined $350 or one month on a charge of obstructing a police officer. He was also placed on probation for one year.

Problems Mount In Winfield As Labor Shortage Increases

Rain and high winds made Friday a lost day in Winfield orchards and heaped more problems on orchardists already facing a precarious situation.

A call for help in harvesting the heavy McIntosh crop has gone out throughout the Valley to anyone capable of picking.

A serious picker shortage has already released high school students to pick and prompted orchardists themselves to pitch in with the actual picking.

Farm labor offices are appealing to local men, women and school children for weekend assistance in harvesting the crop.

Orchardists, who usually only supervise the harvest, are out in the orchards today in a desperate attempt to harvest the crop.

For out-of-town pickers, orchard accommodation will be found.

Farm labor offices in Winfield and Oyama are staying open almost around the clock this weekend to receive and distribute pickers.

Winfield, "the toughest problem we have" according to Joe Callawaert, regional farm labor co-ordinator in Penticton, urgently needs 50 pickers.

In Oyama 20 pickers must be found this weekend.

In Winfield there is orchard accommodation for all. Mr. Callawaert also is appealing to local men and women and students to help this weekend.

Winfield high school students were dismissed from school Friday. They are still out of school and will have to remain out until the crisis passes.

Mr. Callawaert says "we do not want to keep the students from school one moment longer than necessary" but right now we have to have them.

List Of Orchardists To Be Posted

The Winfield farm labor office is at the home of Verner McDonagh. Pickers can call him today at 766-2637. Sunday a list of orchardists needing pickers will be posted at his house.

In Oyama, where 20 pickers are needed, there is some orchard accommodation available and local residents are also asked to help.

The Oyama labor office is at the home of Gus Reich, Highway 97. It will be open all day today and Sunday. His telephone number is 648-3515.

Some Winfield orchardists contacted this morning said they had enough pickers to scrape through. Others admitted they were in trouble.

One orchardist said the rain ground harvesting to a halt Friday but the situation today "isn't too bad, and we'll be all right if the rain holds off."

The situation in the rest of the Valley is much better than in Winfield and Oyama, Mr. Callawaert said.

"The demand for pickers is tapering off in Kelowna, although some 15 prune pickers are needed."

In Oliver 10 pickers are needed to harvest Delicious apples. The southern Valley picker demand has levelled out. The labor situation from Summerland to Osoyoos is "fairly balanced." The Penticton situation is also balanced and there is no need for students, Mr. Callawaert said.

Dief's Leadership, Future May Be Put To Test In P.E.I.

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—The continuing popularity of Progressive Conservative leader John Diefenbaker and the effects on his future of the Munsinger report may both be put to the test here today as the Prince Edward Island Conservative Association holds its annual meeting.

Dalton Camp, president of the national PC association, who has called for a reappraisal of party leadership, is attending. And so is Wallace Nesbitt, PC member of Parliament for Ontario's Oxford riding, who has said he may challenge Mr. Camp's presidency at a Nov. 15 convention in Ottawa.

The Munsinger report with its scathing criticism of Mr. Diefenbaker, contains fresh ammunition for those Conservatives who have been attempting to remove him from the leadership.

But that it also has the capability of acting as a spur to prod Diefenbaker elements who have rallied to him in previous challenges was made obvious Friday by Egan Chambers, a former national president.

Mr. Chambers, who left the presidency after falling into Diefenbaker's bad graces, said in a Montreal interview Friday that the findings of the Spence royal commission now would lead him to support the leader.

"I wouldn't want to withdraw my support from Mr. Diefenbaker now. It would look as if I was agreeing with the Liberals and their commission," he thought any attempts to unseat Diefenbaker now would be unsuccessful.

Wilson To Meet Emissary On Thorny Rhodesia Crisis

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Wilson was to meet one of his special emissaries to Rhodesia today amid conflicting reports on the success of new talks with Rhodesia's white-minority government.

Premier Ian Smith, who unilaterally declared Rhodesia's independence last November, said in Rhodesia Friday "the end is in sight" to Rhodesia's dispute with Britain over independence.

His comments caused the pound to jump six points on the foreign exchange market in London and sent stock prices up in companies affected by economic sanctions against Rhodesia.

The pessimism set in as the full Smith speech was analysed and it began to appear that the gap between the British government and the Rhodesian regime is still as wide as ever.

But an analysis of the full speech indicated Rhodesia and Britain were no closer to agreement. Sir Morrice James of the Commonwealth office was to give his first-hand version of the talks to Wilson today.

Patrick Keately, Commonwealth correspondent of The Guardian, observed that it remains likely that the latest mission to Salisbury "will return to London having found Mr. Smith unwilling to settle on any terms other than indefinite white supremacy."

"Since this is clearly unacceptable in the light of the Commonwealth conference, it would appear that Mr. Wilson will have no alternative but to take the Rhodesia problem to the UN Security Council."

Hanoi Rejects New U.S. Offer 'As Attempt To Fool Public'

TOKYO (Reuters)—North Viet Nam has rejected the latest U.S. proposal to negotiate a Viet Nam peace as an attempt to fool public opinion.

The official (North) Viet Nam news agency said in a statement today that the offer, in a speech at the United Nations Thursday by U.S. Ambassador Arthur Goldberg, was an election dodge.

The U.S. proposal called for a half of the bombing of North Viet Nam in return for "assurances" of "corresponding" steps by the north to end its military action in the South, and to consider a gradual, supervised withdrawal of all "external" military forces from the South.

The agency said the Goldberg speech and the activities of President Johnson and his aides indicated the "U.S. imperialists" are launching a new peace negotiation campaign in an attempt to deceive public opinion and conceal a rapid expansion of the Viet Nam war to prepare for the U.S. congressional elections in November.

DISMISS PROPOSAL

The agency's statement dismissed Goldberg's suggestion that a segment of the Viet Cong could take part in the peace negotiations.

It said the fact is that the United States government does not recognize the National Liberation Front (political arm of the Viet Cong) as the sole genuine representative of the South Vietnamese people.

An editorial in the Peking People's Daily, quoted by Radio Peking, today accused the United States and Soviet Union of conspiring together to perpetuate a Viet Nam peace hoax through the United Nations.

$1 Million Win Began Trouble

LONDON (AP)—"Ever since I won all that money" said Percy Harrison, "there's been nothing but trouble."

Harrison, a 52-year-old laborer in a fertilizer factory, picked up more than $1,000,000 in Britain's soccer pools three weeks ago—the biggest individual pools win on record.

But now look what's happened. Harrison has had to abandon his first vacation in 30 years; eleven of the 13 members of the family have been stricken by a strange stomach ailment; he has been reported to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for leaving his three cats hungry, and he's lost his pet dog Lassie.

Harrison arranged the vacation soon after collecting £338,356 ($1,015,668)—tax free—for correctly forecasting tied games in the soccer program. He took all his relatives to a holiday camp on the Essex coast.

Left behind at his cottage home in Lancashire were the three cats. A friend promised to look after Lassie.

Then the trouble began. Members of the family began going down with the stomach complaint soon after arriving at the holiday camp. Harrison himself escaped illness.

But in the meantime game wardens that the RSPCA was investigating the condition of his cats. On top of that the friend back home reported that Lassie had vanished after bolting out the door.

Thirteen Cosa Nostra Men Ponder What To Tell Jury

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirteen Cosa Nostra figures, warned not to stray far after their release in $1,300,000 bail, had the weekend to decide what they will tell a grand jury delving into their crime-syndicate activities.

The 13, representing Cosa Nostra crime-control points around the country, will be questioned by the grand jury Monday on the current distribution of syndicate power and changes within its hierarchy.

The grand jury heard two witnesses Friday, one of them the owner of the restaurant in the New York borough of Queens where police found the 13 meeting Thursday at a steak-and-lobster banquet table. The identity of the second witness was not known.

Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik, who directed the raid, said it was apparent from the importance of the 13 and the distances they had travelled, that "matters of national importance" to the crime syndicate were under discussion.

Investigators were particularly interested in the absence of members of the Joseph (Joe Bonanno) Bonanno clan from the meeting. It controls major underworld enterprises in Arizona, Texas, Nevada, Florida, Wisconsin and California.

Red Guards Warn Soviet Envoys

MOSCOW (Reuters)—China's militant young Red Guards have told Soviet diplomats in Peking that they will "tear the skin from you and rip out your guts," it was reported today.

The threat, on a hand-painted poster outside the Soviet embassy, was reported by Russia's youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Red Guards from Peking's Institute of People's Medicine hung the poster by the embassy gates, it said, presumably during last month's two-day demonstration against Soviet "revisionism."

"All the old and new hatred is graven on our hearts," the poster said. "We won't forget it in a hundred, a thousand or ten thousand years."

"When the moment comes, we will tear the skin from you, rip out your guts, burn your body and throw the ashes to the winds."

Civil Rights Case Move Contested

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Alabama's attorney - general plans to ask dismissal of assault charges in the shooting of a civil - rights advocate, presumably hoping for a stiffer indictment later.

Attorney General Richard Flowers, who failed in a bid earlier this month to gain a more serious indictment, advised a circuit judge Friday he will move to have charges against Thomas L. Coleman dismissed when the case is called Monday.

Rev. Richard Morrisore, a white Roman Catholic priest from Chicago, was wounded, and Episcopal seminarian Jonathan Daniels of Keene, N.H., was killed by shotgun fire Aug. 20, 1965, on a street in Hayneville.

Coleman's lawyer said he will fight the move. A highway engineer and special deputy sheriff, he was acquitted of manslaughter last year in Daniels' death.

In New York, at least 10 of 35 demonstrators were arrested outside a new Harlem school after barricades and a small army of police blocked their way.

The incident marked a third day of disorders at the school by Negroes protesting assignment of Stanley Lissner, a white man, as principal. The arrests came after students and teachers had entered the building without difficulty.

A federal court in New Orleans forbade six white teachers to attack Negro pupils at Bogalusa, where police recently dispersed armed crowds of whites and Negroes confronting each other outside a school.

Bombsights 'Available' To Interested Buyers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An official of a Rochester, N.Y., firm dealing in surplus armaments and aircraft parts has told a court that bombsights are available to any interested buyer.

Jerome Bachman, said this Friday under defence questioning at the U.S. district court trial of three men—one of them a Canadian—accused of conspiring to transport 20 Second World War-vintage B-26 attack bombers to Portugal without U.S. government clearance.

The Canadian is Woodrow W. Roderick, 47, a Winnipeg businessman now living in Tucson, Ariz., whom the government alleges contracted for the planes.

It claims that seven of the bombers were flown to Portugal, with a refuelling stop at St. John's, Nfld., between May and September, 1965.

Bachman, warehouse manager for Morris Diamond Associates of Rochester, said people commonly buy bombsights for the parts. "They strip them down and take the parts out," he explained.

Among the purchasers, he said, has been the U.S. Air Force.

Testimony earlier in the jury trial was that Keat E. Griggers, a Jamestown, Calif., aircraft mechanic, went to the Diamond firm to buy gunsights, gun mounts and ammunition boxes. While there, he also purchased a long-range fuel tank for one of the bombers, it was testified.

WOULD MAKE REPORT

Bachman's brother Jack, the company's sales manager, testified that the company normally would notify the state department if it sold items needing special permission to be exported.

Another witness, Raymond J. Miller, recalled that he had a casual conversation with one of the defendants, John R. Hawke, a former RAF pilot who federal officials allege flew seven of the bombers to Portugal.

Miller, an employee of Page Airways Inc. of Rochester, said the chat took place in May, 1965, at Rochester - Monroe County Airport as Page workers installed the fuel tank in the bomb bay of the plane.

"I asked what they (Hawke and Griggers) were doing with the B-26," Miller recounted. "He (Hawke) said they were taking it to Montreal to have it converted into an executive aircraft."

Federal officials have denied assertions by Hawks that the flights were made under the sponsorship of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency and that they were to be used against rebels in Portugal's African colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

Besides Roderick and Hawks, the other defendant on trial is Count Henri de Montmarin, import-export businessman from Paris.

Legal Tangle In Victoria As Wife Battles Husband

VICTORIA (CP)—Arguments were expected to conclude Monday in a legal tangle that has wife pitted against husband over a car accident involving their former spouses.

Mrs. John Kraft is suing her husband for unstated damages arising from a car accident three years ago that killed her first husband Stanley Ball and Mr. Kraft's first wife Frances, driver of the car.

Widow and widower were married in the interim and should the present Mrs. Kraft win her case her husband would have to launch a civil suit against his insurance company to recover damages.

During testimony Friday before Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan, a lawyer for Safeco Insurance Group, said the company denied any liability.

The court was told that prior to the accident both couples had attended a dance then split up to drive to a cafe in separate cars. Mr. Ball rode with the late Mrs. Kraft and Mrs. Ball (now Mrs. Kraft) rode with Mr. Kraft.

Mr. Ball was killed when the car driven by Mrs. Kraft hit a rock escarpment and Mrs. Kraft died in hospital later.

The then Mrs. Ball launched a suit under the Family Compensation Act, seeking support for two sons and claiming the first Mrs. Kraft was negligent in her driving.

Lawyer Louis Lindholm, representing the present Mrs. Kraft, said there was no evidence that the first Mrs. Kraft had applied her brakes prior to the crash.

Muck Slinger Steps Down

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean assembly today accepted the resignation of opposition legislator Kim Pu-han, who touched off a government crisis by dumping human excrement on Premier Chung Il-kwon and four cabinet members.

The 17-member cabinet resigned following the incident Thursday. President Chung Hee Park took no action on the resignations, indicating he expected the cabinet to stay. He asked the assembly to take punitive action against Kim.

The assembly's judiciary committee debated the question of what to do with Kim for 10 stormy hours today before adopting a majority party-sponsored resolution calling for his eviction from the legislature.

Kim submitted his resignation to a stormy session on the smugly and publicly apologized for his action.

The incident occurred during a session, appeared before the assembly of $111,000 worth of raw saccharine from Japan to Korea by a fertilizer company under the guise of tax-free construction material.

Heavy Destruction Reported By U.S. In North Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP)—American pilots report heavy destruction Friday of North Vietnamese rail yards, oil depots and shipping barges in three raids, the U.S. command said today.

U.S. Navy bombers pounded rail yards and oil depots at Thanh Hoa, about 80 miles south of Hanoi. Bombs also destroyed the Thanh Hoa highway bridge, damaged a railroad bridge and mangled several hundred feet of railroad track, the flyers said.

About 20 miles south of Thanh Hoa, other navy pilots reported destroying or crippling 23 cargo junks and barges. In a third strike U.S. Air Force jets hit an oil storage area and two truck convoys 20 miles northwest of Dong Hoi in the southern panhandle.

On the ground, South Vietnamese military headquarters reported two Viet Cong mortar Tuong province, 60 miles south of attacks Friday night in Dinh west of Saigon. A government infantry regimental command post and a hamlet were shelled. Casualties were reported light

In a pre-dawn battle Friday, government troops hurled waves of attacking Viet Cong, killing 150 and probably inflicting another 100 casualties, while suffering only light losses themselves, a South Vietnamese spokesman said.

The three-hour battle took place about 270 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the guerrillas' biggest strike of the month.

The attack, coupled with reports from U.S. marine sources that three North Vietnamese battalions have infiltrated across the 17th parallel border, raised the possibility that the enemy may try to take the initiative when the northeast monsoon moves in next month.

A new white, the Mekong River, flooded by monsoon rains and melting Himalayan ice, has made an inland sea of four rice bowl provinces on the Cambodian border, destroying 80 per cent of the rice crop and leaving at least 5,000 people homeless.

U.S. authorities are flying food and relief supplies to the area.

FLIER PROMOTION

An Opportunity Missed

By TERRY STEWARD

The Kelowna Chamber of Commerce has passed up a promotion stunt that could reap publicity for the city and its apples from across Canada.

Present-day chamber members probably don't recall the proposal and can't be held responsible for turning it down. But a successful businessman and farmer away down in Georgia does remember and still laughs at his recollection of "a very firm 'no' from Kelowna board of trade officials when he presented his idea to them in 1919."

Ernie (Capt. Ernest Charles Hoy, DFC) Hoy, the first man to fly across the Canadian Rockies in a feat that placed him foremost among this country's aviation pioneers, renewed acquaintances in Kelowna this week.

Honored in both Canada and the U.S. recently for his record-breaking flight in 1919, Mr. Hoy recounted details of his colorful career including a three-year period as a young man when he lived and worked in Kelowna.

NOT THEN
And he produced grins of amusement as he related how the chamber, a promotion-minded body of the present, didn't previously seem quite so publicly conscious as it "flatly refused my plan."

"My idea was for Kelowna to buy an aircraft and paint a big red apple on it. I would then barnstorm the aircraft across the country, carrying mail, attending fairs and giving rides to sell Kelowna as the apple centre of the world."

His idea doesn't sound so spectacular or even worthwhile in this day and age—but in 1919, eight years before Capt. Charles Lindbergh made the first trans-Atlantic crossing by air, Mr. Hoy's plan must surely have been worthy of note.

COULDN'T WAIT

"But there was no standing around waiting for an answer," recalls Mr. Hoy, "the idea of a barnstorming apple picking postman didn't appeal to them and I was immediately told so."

He adds, however, the aircraft he needed would have cost about $6,000. The population of Kelowna in those days hovered about 2,200 persons.

Last Aug. 7, the 47th anniversary of Capt. Hoy's trip across the Rockies, a plaque was unveiled honoring the event by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing in Lethbridge.

Subsequently, an Ernie Hoy Day was proclaimed by the governor of the State of Georgia where the veteran pilot has lived in Clarksville for the past 10 years.

The courageous Rocky Mountain flight was initiated and financed by The Lethbridge Herald, The Calgary Herald, The Vancouver Daily World, the town of Golden and the Aerial League of Canada.

DREW LOTS

The Vancouver branch of the Aerial League drew lots from among five pilots to select the man who would attempt the flight.

Capt. Hoy won. During the flight which began in Vancouver at 4:30 a.m., the sparrow cockpit of the two-seater biplane (Canadian JN-4 popularly referred to as the Jenny) held an additional fuel supply tank to ensure adequate flying time.

He followed a zig-zag course through mountain passes, often barely able to lift the heavily loaded machine to desired heights. "Actually, I went through the Rockies rather than over."

Carrying mail, newspapers and civic greetings for points along the way, Capt. Hoy touched down at Vernon, Grand Forks, Cranbrook and Lethbridge, none of which had airports.

At Cranbrook, a fellow barnstormer, Ernie Hall, took off as he was landing in an attempt to beat Capt. Hoy across the mountains.

"When I took off I decided on a short cut which would cut down my time and probably beat my competition," said Hoy, "but it meant crossing a 6,000 foot pass and my particular aircraft wasn't capable of much more height than that."

Needless to say he made it and it was later learned that Hall never got airborne—his plane crashed into a car while taking off.

BIG WELCOME

"It's ironic," says Mr. Hoy, "there weren't that many cars in those days never mind the rarity of the flying machine."

A crowd of more than 4,000 persons welcomed the pilot's arrival at Bonness outside Calgary at 9 p.m. on the same day he had left Vancouver.

He had demonstrated the way in which the aeroplane could reduce travel time and showed the commercial possibilities of years later one of the first commercial air routes in this country he travelled became many aerial transportation. The route try.

Capt. Hoy will leave Kelowna this weekend, more than 50 years after his first departure from the city as a soldier with the 48th Battalion which later led to the Royal Flying Corps and a Distinguished Flying Cross.

Recalling his days of local lacrosse, rowing and war canoeing, he admits Kelowna will always provide "a large portion of my memories."

Arena Work Under Way

Construction has begun on additions and renovations to the Kelowna Memorial Arena. The work, which could cost the city up to $22,000, will provide a new entrance, ticket office, skate room and concession area on the south side of the arena.

Renovations inside include a skate changing area.

The improvements are tied into a general city arena improvement program designed to help make the arena more suitable for convention activities.

"We'll keep fighting, because we believe we're right," said W. R. Bennett, president of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce in commenting on the city council's decision to keep pressing for a new arena. The chamber submitted a report to council earlier which said chamber men did not think a new arena should be made mandatory in Kelowna.

Toastmasters Meet Monday

The first meeting of the season for the Kelowna Toastmasters' Club will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Royal Anne Hotel.

Robert Mahood, president, extended an invitation to all men in the area who think they might be interested in joining to attend the meeting.

The Toastmasters' Club offers men a program of self-improvement, a training to think clearly, listen analytically and to speak intelligently.

"Such men are needed as leaders today more than ever before," Mr. Mahood said. "The club offers a friendly environment with a cross-section of men from the community who will welcome newcomers."

Visitors will not be asked to speak, but can see the training program in action.

ANNIVERSARY OF A ROAD WILL BE OBSERVED NEXT YEAR

Nearly 1,600 miles of gravel road will celebrate its 25th anniversary next year and plans are under way in Dawson Creek to make sure everybody recognizes the celebration by making the trip.

Dawson Creek Chamber of Commerce president Wally Raedeke told the annual convention of the Pan Am West International Highway Association in Kelowna today his area is promoting two-months of continual travel on the Alaska Highway from Mile "0" at Dawson Creek to Fairbanks.

Road Men At Parley Here Seek Improvements In Route

Resolutions seeking improvement at several points along Highway 97 including one north of the U.S. border in B.C. were expected to be approved at the 34th annual convention of the Pan Am West International in Kelowna.

The highway association, formerly known as the Okanagan Caribou Trail Association was scheduled to meet on the proposals this afternoon in the first of its business sessions.

Expanded to include the international route which winds through some of the most beautiful country in North America from Fairbanks to Quademala, the association now includes the Alaska Highway.

Kelowna mayor R. F. Parkinson today welcomed delegates to the convention and remarked on its progress since its formation.

"We are proud to have been one of the main instigators in setting up the association," he said.

'BAD IMPRESSION'

The combination of resolutions to be put before the delegates are particularly concerned with a stretch of narrow winding road in B.C. near Osoyoos which joins with wide four-lane thoroughfare in Washington.

MAYOR PARKINSON welcomes delegates

"This creates a bad impression of B.C. roads for those travelling north," said a spokesman.

Other points under consideration included a stretch of road north of Chelan in Washington, the highway between Bend and Redmond in Oregon and proposed reconstruction of portion of road in California.

Edmonton Couple In Hospital After Crash Near Peachland

An Edmonton man and his wife were taken to hospital in Kelowna late Friday with undetermined injuries suffered when their car plunged down a 35-foot embankment.

Police said the car was in collision with a transport truck before rolling down the bank on Antler Hill immediately south of Peachland.

Cloudy . . .

Clouds and the possibility of rain will mar what was earlier expected to be a warm sunny weekend.

Weathermen are predicting showers tonight and clouds with a few sunny periods Sunday.

Low tonight and high Sunday forecast for the Okanagan was 52 and 72.

The victims were identified only as Peter A. Stocklassa of Edmonton and the extent of their injuries was not disclosed. Mrs. Stocklassa was described today as in satisfactory condition.

$600 DAMAGE

Damage was estimated at $600 in one car accident on Glenmore Dr. at 3:45 a.m. today. Police said a car driven by Jean Agnes Fehr, 1285 Glenmore St., failed to negotiate a curve on Glenmore Dr. and struck a telephone pole. No injuries were reported.

At 10:45 a.m. Friday an accident was reported on Glenmore Rd. resulting in $500 damage. A car driven by Garry Clayton Letcher, 552 Oxford Ave. failed to negotiate a curve, about one mile south of Winfield. No injuries were reported.

Kelowna Builders, 1045 Ellis St. reported the theft of two sets of wheels of dolly cars used to transport bricks. The wheels were valued at $30.

Dominion President In City Comments On Integration Issue

The Dominion president of the Royal Canadian Legion said in Kelowna Friday, Prime Minister Pearson's reply to his letter on integration of the armed forces is "a most frank and fair answer."

Ronald E. MacBeath of Moncton, was speaking to some 200 legionnaires, wives and members of the women's auxiliaries from Salmon Arm, Kamloops to the U.S. border and Princeton, who gathered in Kelowna to greet him.

Mr. MacBeath had written the Prime Minister expressing concern on behalf of the Legion about "the lack of authoritative, clear-cut information and explanation" which left the Legion unable to form a sound judgment on the question.

MAKE IT CLEAR

The letter urged the government to make clear, without further delay, the detailed plans connected with the integration and unification of the forces.

In his reply, received in Kelowna, the prime minister assured the Legion no change will be made until the whole question has been considered by the standing committee on national defence.

He said the service groups and the public will be informed of the plans and its certain all organizations will have an opportunity to present briefs on the subject.

"I am satisfied with this straight forward answer," Mr. MacBeath said Friday. "We will consider the plans when they are made public and will decide then whether or not we will submit a brief."

QUESTS

Guests or honor at the social gathering in the Legion Hall included B. F. Baker of Oya, of Kelowna.

Plans are being made to celebrate Veterans Week across Canada, he said. The national Centennial committee has asked the Legion for assistance in building bonfires across the nation to observe the opening of the Centennial year.

Mr. MacBeath was given a standing ovation at the end of his talk.

The Maple Leaf and Legion flags were piped in, and the flags were carried by Robert Simpson and William Moomen, of Kelowna.

Let's Work For 'Oasis' That Is The Lord's Day!

More and more it appears that the day for rest and worship is being encroached upon in every community and city by people who, consciously or unconsciously, do not care what happens on or to Sunday.

Non-religious folk even have a right to point an accusing finger at many 'professing' Christians and say, "Look at them; Sunday doesn't make any difference to their manner of living; they are no different than ourselves."

For some years Christian groups have contended with entertainment and sporting enthusiasts as well as city councils over the 'Sunday problem'. Many arguments are based upon the fact that the majority of people could not care less; but the answer is not that simple. Whether we believe in Him or not, God has created man to live in a divine-human relationship, nor are our lives truly fulfilled unless we do thus live. "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God" is the word of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. (Matthew 4:4).

Now I am not suggesting that we return to the Victorian days when Sundays were exceedingly dull. Charles Dickens, in Little Dorrit, wrote of a man who hated church bells because they reminded him of hateful, dull, depressing Sundays; and John Ruskin said that Monday morning was the happiest time in the week for him because there were six clear days before Sunday came round again. In some Scottish homes the window blinds were kept drawn in case anyone should get too cheerful.

To me, Sunday is the best day of the week, for as a Christian I love the Lord and desire to honor and worship Him. As Leslie Weatherhead has said, "Sunday is a little park in the noisy din of our hectic week; a little oasis in the desert of our monotonous and unnatural life. Therefore Sunday should be protected and guarded or else, very soon, there will be no Sunday for anyone to enjoy." It is apparent, however, that this approach to the Lord's day is not for everyone! What then? May I offer this suggestion that we have an honest and mutual respect for each other.

We who would 'keep' the day would request all groups wishing to 'use' the day that they refrain from planning any activities on Sunday mornings—until, say, one o'clock—so that children and young people as well as adults may have the opportunity of attending church school and worship services. Sunday evenings might well be kept free also for many churches do have services and youth activities then.

Surely in our 40-hour-week society we don't have to organize Sunday so completely that people are neither free to go to the House of the Lord nor stay away from it!

Did I say a mutual respect for each other? Yes, we who want to keep the day, on the other hand, would go along with much of the programming arranged for Sunday afternoons—providing it is clean and wholesome! This is purely a private view, but there may be many people who will uphold it.

—Rev. Alvin C. Hamill, First Baptist Church, Kelowna.

British Popular

A recent public-opinion poll has been conducted in the United States to determine the degree of popularity enjoyed by several nationalities which have close historical, diplomatic or family ties with the American people.

The survey was made by the Hooper Research Institute and involved seven nationalities: French, Mexican, Israeli, German, Italian, British and Russian. To many the results have been quite surprising. The British, in spite of 1776 and all that and the great American pastime of twisting the lion's tail, won the "popularity poll" by a wide margin, with 34 per cent of those polled naming them as the best-liked nationality.

Second in popularity were the Germans who, despite two world wars in which they fought against the Americans, received 16 per cent of the votes.

Third in line were the Italians who got 12 per cent while the French, despite Lafayette and Brigitte Bardot, managed only 10 per cent to take fourth place.

Well down the list with only five per cent each were the Mexicans and the Israelis. The Russians brought up the rear as the best-liked nationality with percentage unreported. However, on a reverse poll naming the least liked they topped the list with 40 per cent.

When asked to say with which nationalities they most closely identified themselves 80 per cent of the Americans interviewed said they felt they had "much" or "something" in common with the British, 66 per cent said the same of the Germans, 60 per cent of the French, while 30 per cent felt they had at least a degree of "togetherness" with the Russians.

Understandably elated with the results the West German government has made much of the survey by publishing its results widely in all its international newsletters.

So far, however, Paris has remained silent. Which makes a nice change. But we wonder where the Canadians would place.

100 New Jobs Mean . . .

When a town acquires 100 new factory workers it is obvious that the local economy must receive many indirect benefits from this industrial growth. But the extent of these benefits is quite surprising.

On the average, according to a conservative calculation made by the Canadian National Railways research department, 100 new factory workers means that there will be an additional 117 more people employed in non-manufacturing jobs. There will be three more retail establishments, and $939,000 more in retail sales per year. The population of the community will increase by 427 more people, of whom 66 will be school children. There will be 131 more households, 393 more telephones, 187 more passenger car registrations, and $229,000 more in bank deposits.

Bygone Days

10 YEARS AGO September 1956

The classrooms are practically deserted as 750 students from junior and senior high school in Kelowna and district aid the growers in picking the apple crop. Six of the seven large packinghouses have closed down except for the receiving and cold storage operations, and the rest of their employees are out picking.

20 YEARS AGO September 1946

The Peachland Women's Institute held their first Fall Fair since 1941, in the Athletic Hall. R. P. Murray, M. P. D. Trumpour and A. W. Watt judged the fruit and Mrs. W. Martin, Kelowna, and Mrs. Mary Wilkins judged the cooking and needlework. Rev. R. S. McDonald officially opened the fair. Mrs. J. Cameron, president, introduced him.

30 YEARS AGO September 1936

A heroic rescue, under difficult circumstances, was made by J. C. Clarence when he rescued Hamish MacNeill and Neil Evans from their sailing boat, which had been capsized by a sudden whirlwind, toward the east side of the lake opposite Trepanier. They had clung to their partly submerged craft two hours before being rescued.

40 YEARS AGO September 1926

Public School enrollment is the largest yet in Kelowna, with 615 already enrolled and more to come when the fruit crop is finished. The facilities of the school will be taxed to the limit. The old system of forming lines and marching into school has been abolished. The pupils now enter the school five minutes before nine, and are in their places ready to work when the bell rings.

50 YEARS AGO September 1916

A meeting was held in the Kelowna United Church under the auspices of the YMCA. Mr. Hadcock, dominion secretary, and Mr. Yates, of the Vernon YMCA, spoke of the work being done for the soldiers in Vernon camp and elsewhere. Ways and means of raising funds locally were considered.

60 YEARS AGO September 1906

Some idiots rang the bell at the Church of England at midnight on Saturday as a false fire alarm, tumbling many citizens out of their beds in a hurry and bringing to the fire hall all the firemen who were in town. We trust the council will pass a bylaw imposing severe penalties for false alarms.

Dental Offices Have New Look

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you could take a look today at a 1967 dental office, chances are you wouldn't recognize it—or the dentist.

Big changes are coming in techniques and equipment—and in the training and outlook of the young men who will be working in your mouth 10 years from now, says Dr. Reidar F. Sognnaes, dean of the school of dentistry at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Some of the results of increasing research were apparent in a recent preview of UCLA's new $8,000,000 school of dentistry.

In its vast clinics the traditional barber-type chairs have been replaced with reclining couches. The pillar of drills and hoses is gone and in its place is a small, shove-around box, handier for the dentist to reach. The dentist is seated, with the patient's head virtually in his lap, thus preventing the back-breaking, neck-craining strain of standup dentistry.

There's a new kind of x-ray machine—a device that rotates around the head and—uses a strip of film on the outer side of the head. With it there is no need for patients to hold bits of film behind their teeth.

Not so readily apparent, but if care future patients will get, is a new concept of dentistry, long endorsed by Dean Sognnaes and now being brought to reality.

"Originally, we were concerned primarily with relief of pain and more recently with restoring function," he said. "Now, however, we are coming to grips with the cause and prevention of dental disease."

A substantial part of the new school will be devoted to dental research, an area which Sognnaes says has been neglected.

Among the new tools which he has investigated is the laser, a device which emits a beam of light so powerful it can bore holes in metal.

"So far the laser has not proved too successful in taking the place of the drill," he says. Sognnaes said other research is under way to find better materials for filling cavities and making dentures.

WALKS ON WATER

TOKYO (AP)—Seiichi Mabuchi, 69, of Osaka, walked the four-mile width of the Akashi Strait on the Inland Sea in 4½ hours with six-foot wooden floats on his feet. With each step on his invention, paddles at the rear were set in motion to help him along.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Hot Foot Problem May Be Circulation

By DR. JOSEPH G. MOLNER

Dear Dr. Molner:

What causes heat in the legs and soles of the feet? At the moment my husband has a cold towel on his left leg. The right one is bearable. His face is extremely hot on both sides. Our doctor has tried pills for a circulatory condition, nervous disorders and allergies, but nothing seems to help—M.A.S.

Burning of the feet alone may result from faulty circulation due to hardening of the arteries. Medication (or other measures to increase circulation) is the best course.

There are other causes which may be looked for—toxic neuritis (including toxicity from alcohol or tobacco), or inflammation of the arteries of the legs, either polyarteritis, or inflammation on the order of Burger's disease, which is believed to be incited by tobacco.

The diffuse heat in your husband's face suggests a condition known as erythromelalgia. The cause of this is not known but it is thought to be a disturbance of the nervous system, or the part of it which controls blood vessel tone. We have little to offer for this in the way of treatment, but the trouble is aggravated by warmth.

In addition to the measures your doctor has already attempted (and which succeed in many cases) I would look for some toxic condition, and would learn whether the patient uses either tobacco or alcohol, or both. In some instances, the real answer is so close that we do not see it.

As a last resort surgery may be advised—either cutting of the sympathetic nerves, or repair of the arteries.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could cause a year-old baby to have bronchitis? A person does acquire such a worm, various medications are effective in destroying it.

At this age the cause often is allergy, although chronic sinus infection may be a factor. Treatment depends on what is found to be responsible—that for allergy is quite different from that for infection.

Dr. Dr. Molner: Perhaps this is ridiculous but my family suddenly refuses to eat any vegetables or salads which we have always doted on. This is the result of a tale told by a friend who says she was hospitalized because of a large worm found growing in her intestine.

According to her it enters the body from eggs found on fresh vegetables. It is supposed to grow to a length of three feet in 48 hours and must be carefully removed because it will multiply quickly if left in the body, probably causing death. Is there any truth to this?—MRS. M.R.

You'll have to write off nearly all of what you were told as an old wives' tale. Of course vegetables should be washed, but this is to remove insecticides or other harmful material. Any worms present would also be washed off.

There are parasites such as tapeworms of various types, but they are transmitted by eggs in the meat of animals or fish which have become infested, so attributing the trouble to vegetables is far afield from the facts.

Some tapeworms can grow to fantastic lengths, but they are not deadly, such as you were told. It is also important to remove the worm completely because the head attaches itself to the intestine. If the rest is removed but the head remains, the worm will keep right on growing.

Modern sanitation and proper cooking of meat and fish are the best preventives of tapeworm. If a person does acquire such a worm, various medications are effective in destroying it.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

Mackenzie's River Of Disappointment

By ART GRAY

The great river Mackenzie and his party were following turned toward the northwest. They passed two large streams coming in from that direction, the Laird and the Nahanni they are called today. Soon, he hoped, the main stream would turn west.

A great range of mountains was on their left flank, snow covered and shining in the hot July mid-day sun.

Known today as the Mackenzie Mountains, this thousand-mile-long range runs separate but parallel to the Rockies, and the river he was travelling upon is also named the Mackenzie.

Several days later they met a party of Slave and Dog-Rib Indians. Mackenzie questioned them about the country into which they were heading. Their replies were discouraging. They said it would take several winters to reach the sea, and "old age would come upon every member before the return voyage could be completed."

They also added that fierce monsters of horrible shapes would be encountered, and two enormous falls, both impassable. Mackenzie discounted almost everything they said as sheer fantasy, but his own Indians became alarmed. He persuaded them to continue, however, and even induced one of the Dog-Ribs to join as a guide. Hordes of mosquitoes soon added to their troubles.

NOT WEST

Gradually the conviction came over Mackenzie that the river was not going to turn westward, and they were approaching the Arctic. After shooting several dangerous rapids, and narrow gorges, the country became flat, and no mountains were in sight. The days became longer, and the sun was still shining at midnight. Eventually they reached a "lake", but Mackenzie suspected that it was the Arctic Ocean. They were fabulously and unpleasantly shown that it was no lake during the night of July 13, 1789, 40 days after leaving Fort Chipewyan, while camped on an island. They were awakened by water flooding their camp—the tide had come in, sure proof that they were beside an ocean!

There was a wild scramble to salvage clothing, food, and ammunition and to carry everything to higher ground. Their boats too had floated away, having been tied to spikes driven into the ice which had been melted by the salt water.

Within a short time all the boats and canoes were rounded up by Mackenzie, who dragged them in behind his own boat. Fires were lit, clothing and blankets dried out. The next day was mild and balmy, warm winds blew from the south and the sun was hot overhead. They caught two large whitefish and several edible smaller fish. They also sighted several huge white whales.

Reluctantly convinced by his observations that it was the Arctic Ocean they had reached, and not the hoped for Pacific, Mackenzie and his party began the return journey up the river. He called in his note books, "The River of Disappointment"—but which was none-the-less, the second longest river in North America, extending for 2,400 miles.

MORE GRUELING

The return journey was, if anything, more gruelling than the northward trip for they had to battle the rapids, and the flow of the river had increased with the melting of the ice and snow. Portages had to be made around falls, and in other places the current was so strong that tracking, as it was called, became necessary.

The heavy-laden canoes being towed up the river with ropes, hauled by the men. Their provision became low. The Indians, becoming disgruntled, were sent to hunt for food but returned empty handed. Eventually, after many hardships, they reached Fort Chipewyan, where they were greeted warmly, and the weary travellers took hot baths, ate and went to bed.

Alexander Mackenzie was an unhappy man, however. He had failed to reach his goal, the Pacific, and would not receive the prize of £10,000 offered by the British government for that feat. He made a long report to his partners in Montreal, and two days later a junior clerk set off carrying the letter and a hastily drawn map of the area discovered, and an appraisal of the fur-trading potential.

In spite of the disappointment at failing to find the "North West Passage" via the great river that now bears his name, he determined to try again, choosing the Peace River, which emptied into Lake Athabasca from the West, as the passageway to the Pacific.

He decided to leave America and go to England, he knew too little of astronomy and navigation to make accurate observations, and he wanted to obtain better instruments. He left Ft. Chipewyan in the early spring of 1790, reaching Grand Portage, two months later.

The partners of the company paid scant praise to him for his accomplishment in exploring. Beaver pelts were the stuff in which they were interested, for they brought profits. Others, however, hailed his achievements, and when he reached Montreal scores of voyageurs in canoes and batons met him at Lac Beauport and escorted him in triumph to the city, where a crowd of three or four thousand greeted him.

In England Mackenzie, then 26 years old, went to Cambridge and took courses in astronomy, navigation, mathematics and geography, enrolled under an assumed name.

He visited the London waterfront in search of seamen who had sailed with Captain Cook on his voyage along the Pacific Coast. He found two, and paid them to answer numerous questions about their experiences, and what they had seen on their journeys up and down the west coast of America.

He was in now good financial position, his partnership in the North West Company probably brought him an income of £4,000 annually. An American captain named John Meares had reported finding an inland sea east of Vancouver's Island. Mackenzie decided that here, perhaps, was the North West Passage. It might be the outlet of the river that crossed the Rockies to the sea.

Mackenzie returned to Ft. Chipewyan with a stubborn determination to find a way to the Pacific Ocean. This time he planned to winter far up the Peace River, to be able to start as soon as the ice went out in the spring.

Next Week — Overland to the Pacific.

CANADA'S STORY

Beef Baron Burns Had Kindly Side

By ROB ROWMAN

When the transcontinental railways were being built one of the biggest problems was keeping the workers supplied with materials, fuel and food. The CPR got a break when a valuable seam of coal was discovered near Fort Whoop-Whoop. A. T. Galt, one of the Fathers of Confederation, formed a company to mine it, and the CPR built a branch from Dunmore on the main line to Coal Banks (now Lethbridge) so coal could be supplied to the construction gangs and locomotives. The Coal Banks to Dunmore line was opened on September 24, 1885. One year later Coal Banks had a population of 1,000.

Beef was the food needed most of all by the construction workers, and cattle ranches, grey like mushrooms along the railway routes. Thousands of head of cattle were herded from as far away as Idaho by the cowboys, and soon there were estimated to be 40,000 head cattle feeding on the prairies.

Pat Burns, founder of the now famous meat company, got his start in this way. He had gone to school with William Mackenzie in Kirkfield, Ontario, and when Mackenzie and Mann built their railways, Burns supplied beef to their workers.

Burns was a member of a family of 11 children and decided to go west with his brother John and get a home-land. They worked in the bush the first winter and received two oxen instead of wages. Pat slaughtered the animals and sold the meat. This gave him the idea of providing beef for railway workers.

It is said that Pat Burns was one of the few men who made a million dollars without making an enemy. He furnished beef to the railway workers in the construction camps from Regina to Saskatoon and Prince Albert. Calgary became his headquarters when the line was built from there to Edmonton. In 1898, during the Klondike gold rush, he sold beef in Dawson City for one dollar a pound which was a big price in those days. Cattle were shipped by boat from Vancouver, slaughtered beside the Lewes River, and the carcasses floated down there to Dawson.

Burns became a millionaire through supplying animals but there is an interesting contract in his career. During a Calgary Stampede parade Burns was riding in his limousine when he noticed that a small pig, part of a display, had become exhausted while walking beside a float. He stopped his car and took the small animal inside.

- 1710 Nicholson and Vetch sailed into Port Royal, Nova Scotia, which they captured on October 12.
- 1811 First Selkirk settlers for Red River arrived in Hudson Bay.
- 1859 Quebec became capital of Canada until 1865.
- 1897 Albridge opened a bridge across the Peace River.

BIBLE BRIEF

"For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." — Romans 8:38, 39.

Because Christ is our God-true, nothing can come between us and Him.

Expo 67 Selection Committee Interviews Kelowna Applicants

By FLORA EVANS

The Expo '67 Hostess Selection Committee arrived in Kelowna unexpectedly early Friday morning, as due to the bad weather conditions the plane from Vancouver was unable to land in Penticton.

Members of this committee who are travelling to the principal cities of Canada, interviewing applicants for the position of exhibition hostesses, include the chief hostess, Monique Archambault; her assistant Pierrette Poulin; hostess Jeanne Murin; Yvonne Morrisette, publicity co-ordinator; Philip Gauthier, who is in charge of the committee, and his assistant A. Tremblay.

The selection committee left Vancouver on Monday, interviewed 19 applicants in Victoria, planned to interview applicants in Penticton Friday morning, and are busy interviewing 12 Kelowna applicants, before leaving for Calgary on the weekend. The deadline for applications was Sept. 1, and a Canadian and lives in Montréal. She speaks five languages, German and Slovak in addition to a good knowledge of Polish, Ukrainian and Serbo-Croat. Selected in May, she told me she has been travelling for Expo ever since, which she found rather strenuous but extremely interesting.

HOSTESS REQUIREMENTS

What is required to be an Expo hostess? The chief hostess for the exhibition, Monique Archambault puts it this way: "Candidates should be able to express themselves clearly, have a good general knowledge of Canada and the Canadian way of life and preferably be single so that they will be able to handle the many daily events without difficulty. They will be required to do shift work, seven hours a day, five days a week, from 8:30 in the morning to 10:30 in the evening during the 183 days that the exhibition is open to the public.

Hostesses will also be responsible for information kiosks at the Place d'Accueil, the main entrance to the exhibition, the International Trade Centre and the amusement area, La Ronde. They will welcome VIP's visiting the Theme pavilions, the Hospitality Centre, at special receptions known as Expo Rendez-vous, also assisting the press services.

Candidates should be Canadian citizens and speak French and English; knowledge of one or more other languages will qualify the candidates for higher salary scales. Age limit is 20 to 35. They should have a high school graduation certificate or the equivalent and should also be in good health. They will take a special two-week training course.

Hostesses will wear a uniform supplied by the Canadian Corporation for the World Exhibition which will also be responsible for the maintenance of these uniforms. The corporation will also reimburse the cost of return fares to those candidates recruited outside Montreal.

"I have not the slightest doubt," said Mrs. Archambault, "that we will find young girls in every province who will represent Canada with distinction. We could have got all our hostesses in Montreal, if we had wanted, she concluded. But that is not the point—this exposition is Canada not just Montreal."

Two hundred hostesses will be chosen altogether and the final decisions of the committee will be known before Christmas.

ROUTS ROBBERS POSTE HASTE

Freda Platteau a doughty 210 pound postmistress in London, England, saw four robbers walk in, one carrying a shotgun. Mrs. Platteau reached for her trusty club and swung. "He didn't know what hit him", she said, as she demonstrated her swing. The quartet turned tail and ran.

ANN LANDERS

Honesty Should Be Rewarded

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell a couple of disillusioned teenagers who can a person trust anymore.

My friend and I were walking to town. I saw an 8-transistor radio lying on a curb lawn. It looked nearly new and in pretty good shape so I picked it up. We decided to ring the doorbell and ask if the radio belonged to anyone in the house.

A lady who answered the bell said the radio was not hers but perhaps it belonged next door. We tried next door and the woman there said the radio belonged to her son who was always losing things.

When I got home I told my mother what we had done. She said, "You certainly behaved like fools. Anybody would have claimed the radio whether it was theirs or not. That's human nature."

Please don't get the idea my mother is a crook. She's really a very nice person but I felt awfully let down after she made that remark. Is this the way people really are? — DIS- SA POINTED

Dear Miss: SOME people are like that, unfortunately, but obviously you aren't and neither are millions of other decent, honorable folks. It would have been nice if the lady who claimed the radio had given you and your friend a couple of dollars for your "trouble". Honesty should be encouraged by rewarding those who really believe in it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22, married for two years and have a little girl. Both my husband and I work. We each drive our own car. I don't know if the trouble is me, my folks or my car. Anyway, it's getting me down and I need help.

Because I am working I don't have time to do my housework and marketing and many things most women do. My mother helps me a lot. My sister babysits whenever I need her. We are a very close family.

Almost every morning my mother or sister phones and asks me to drive one of them someplace. I usually have to ask them home, too. My husband is getting annoyed with these calls and has told me to say no. He says I work all day and should not be expected to drive them around at night.

I want to please my husband but I feel I should help out my family since they help me. What is your advice? — MRS.??

Dear Mrs.: So long as you accept favors your are obliged to repay them. My advice is to hire help or stay home and do your own work and leave your

White House Drew Kennedys Closer Together, Says Friend

NEW YORK (AP)—The White House probably drew the John F. Kennedys closer together than they had ever been before, says Paul B. Fay Jr., a long-time friend of the late president.

Fay, former undersecretary of the navy, writes of the Kennedy relationship in his book "The Pleasure of His Company" to be published Sept. 7.

"The roles of president and first lady tended to demand that they stand apart from others, which in turn gave them many more hours together," Fay writes.

Fay — nicknamed "Red" — and Kennedy had been close friends since the Second World War when they served together in action in the Pacific. Kennedy appointed Fay undersecretary of the navy in 1961 and he served until 1965.

ASKED ABOUT DIVORCE
One day in 1960 when Kennedy's candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination was widely recognized, Fay says, the two were playing golf.

Fay said he asked Kennedy about a rumor that the Kennedys were having marital differences. The story was going around, Fay told him, that "Jackie is staying with you only until you are nominated or the election is over, and then is going to divorce you."

The information was supposed to have come from one of Mrs. Kennedy's closest friends. Fay said he wanted rebuttal directly from Kennedy so he could kill the rumor.

"Jack looked at me calmly as though I had just told him that his shoe was untied."

BOOSTS RATES
VANCOUVER (CP) — Spiraling costs Thursday forced the Central YMCA office to boost its rates for residents for the third time in 18 months.

A spokesman said: "We are not in any financial difficulty. It is just part of a general trend of increased prices to balance costs which have crept up over the past year."

University Women's Club Outlines Varied Program

A varied program for the coming season was outlined to members at the September meeting of the University Women's Club held at the home of Mrs. R. M. Wilson, Poplar Point.

The club president, Mrs. E. H. Birdsall, welcomed old and new members, and also visitors from the newly formed Vernon club.

On Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 the Alberta-Brish Columbia Regional Conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women will be held in Kelowna, and in preparation for this event a panel of members discussed various aspects of the conference theme "Junior Colleges".

Mrs. C. R. Cameron discussed the importance of the junior college for post high school education and as a vehicle for transfer to university, pointing out that both academic and technical courses should have equal importance.

Mrs. O. S. Walker showed the importance of the junior college as a community college which should be flexible and responsive to the needs of the community.

One important aspect of this is in adult education which, as Mrs. C. B. Moore pointed out, should be a major part of the junior college program. Finally Mrs. M. K. John gave a brief but illuminating talk on the progress of some junior college students in the United States when they transferred to university. Generally it was found that these students did not make good progress, and Mrs. John urged that junior college academic standards should be of the highest.

After the conference the University Women's Club has an interesting variety of topics lined up for the monthly meetings, and also plans to sponsor Holiday Theatre for school children; Hansel and Gretel; The Best of Barkerville. There will also be drama classes for children starting at the end of October, and a workshop in creative dramatics for teachers.

Any woman university graduate wishing to join the club is urged to contact the president Mrs. E. H. Birdsall.

Kelowna guests included the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. R. R. Rornez, Mrs. R. H. Dillon, Miss Louise Lucas, Miss Wendy Dobbin and Miss Colleen Lynn. From Lakeview Heights there were Mrs. Menu and Misses Lorraine and Cecile Menu, and from Westbank; Mrs. Don Kennedy, Mrs. C. D. Dobbin and Mrs. David Gellatly.

"Red," he said, without a flicker, "the story is false, but I wouldn't feel all that confident about killing it if I were you. People who spread stories like that don't want to accept a denial."

Fay also mentions briefly the rumor of a "secret marriage" by Jack Kennedy before his marriage to Jacqueline. "The president was less disturbed by that irresponsible gossip than I was," Fay notes. He said he urged the president to make a statement at a press conference about it.

WAS UNCONCERNED
"Resigned and unconcerned, Jack said, 'Red, if I make a statement to the public on everything I have been accused of, I'd spend all my time on radio and television trying to keep the record straight. If people want to believe such tales, no denial on my part is going to convince them differently.'"

INTERPRETING WORLD EVENTS

Soviet Seems Alarmed At Events In Red China

MOSCOW (CP)—The Soviet Union appears genuinely alarmed by recent events in China.

The Soviet press has carried numerous, detailed articles from Peking on China's "great cultural revolution."

At the same time, it has been running reprints from Communist newspapers in a number of other countries condemning the behavior of Mao Tse-tung's rampaging Red Guards.

Common to many of these commentaries is the contention that the current upheaval in China wears a distinctly anti-Soviet complexion.

"In the so-called 'cultural revolution,' what particularly stands out," is the virulent anti-Sovietism," said an editorial in the Indian Communist party's weekly New Age reprinted here.

"Anti-Soviet slogans prevail among the slogans of the Red Guards to such an extent that the anti-imperialist coloring of the (Peking) demonstrations was lost in them," reported Warsaw's Trybuna Ludu.

The Soviet Communist party's central committee noted the same bias. Documents of the most recent meeting of the Chinese party's central committee show that the Peking leadership "has given the approval of its anti-Soviet line the form of an official policy of the Chinese Communist party," it said in a statement.

The Kremlin was particularly riled by what it called, in an official protest note, "provocations" and "outrages" committed against Soviet diplomatic personnel in Peking.

These coincided with demonstrations near the Soviet Embassy that stretched over two days and two nights, during which the Soviet Union was roundly denounced for its "revisionism."

The Chinese renamed the street on which the embassy is located Street of the Struggle against Revisionism.

Despite their official protest, the Soviets have been cautious

Steelworkers Of America Serve Notice Of Demands

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America have served notice that steelworkers will demand substantial contract gains in their next contracts in 1968 including stock-option plans.

The steelworkers, winding up their annual convention, today heard Vice-President Hubert Humphrey urge them to avoid inflationary wage demands. He said the United States has "no written guarantee of a golden, never-ending prosperity."

"And that," added Humphrey, "is why we've got to exert discipline — all of us — in keeping on a steady course."

The convention Thursday overwhelmingly approved new bargaining procedures that for the first time empower the workers to call for a strike.

Among the demands the steelworkers will ask for when their factions. The union has some 100,000 members in Canada.

The union also will seek:

1. Compensation for time spent by a worker travelling between his home and job.
2. Stock option plans now reserved for top management.

The new bargaining changes, the first in 22 years, established industrial conferences in four major industries — basic steel, aluminum, can making and non-ferrous metals.

These conferences were empowered to accept or spur labor agreements and to recommend strike action with the approval of the workers in their respective industries.

Tariff Board Strikes Out For Use Of Plain English

OTTAWA (CP)—The tariff board, which tries to keep order among conflicting interpretations of Canada's tangled code of customs duties, has struck another blow for just plain English.

A tractor is a tractor designed to push or pull a load—though the board in a 6,000-word ruling found that even it couldn't state it as simply as that.

The board was asked a year and a half ago by the revenue department to give its opinion on what is simply meant by the definition of a tractor.

It heard evidence from 26 farm implement and heavy industry firms and associations, scores of witnesses, and lengthy argument among the experts.

The main problem confronting it, the board said, was that the old-fashioned farm tractor has been dressed up by "a bewildering multiplicity of ancillary machinery, tools or attachments to which the jargon of the advertiser has given the array of names which must confound the most learned of lexicographers."

"These additions produce a metamorphosis whereby the tractor—if it is still a tractor—reappears in the sparkling plumage of backhoes, dozers, bulldozers, paydozers, tillage dozers, U-dozers. . . ."

rate of duty importers must pay on tractors and more complicated tractor-like machines. Tractors are admitted to Canada from all countries free of duty, but some equipment used on a tractor requires payment of duty as high as 35 per cent when brought into Canada from some foreign countries.

The board said it couldn't leave it to the equipment designers to say what was a tractor and what was not. Neither could it leave it to the importer and Canadian user. He'd naturally be inclined to call anything a tractor.

So the board ruled that a tractor must have an internal combustion engine as an integral part of it, and it must be self-propelled when performing its tractor function.

Then the board made a ruling like Solomon's judgment between the two harlots: divide the child in two.

The part that is unquestionably a tractor will be given tariff treatment as a tractor. That part that is equipment or devices "not so essentially constitutive as to form an integral mechanical unit" with the tractor, will be taxed as machines or tools for use on tractors.

LOTS OF NAMES
There are also pneumotrac-tors, rooters, rippers, skidders, straddle carriers, tractorloaders, traxcavators, and a host of other names for them.

The nub of the argument appeared to be: how many gadgets can you build onto a tractor and still have a tractor, not something else?

"One thing which emerges clearly from the evidence is the lack of unanimity of opinion on the subject," the board said after reviewing over 1,000 pages of transcript.

It went to four dictionaries and two encyclopedias. It found one common feature—a tractor must be self-propelled. "Without self-propulsion the machine would be unable to exercise its essential function of traction or pulsion by its own locomotion." But, the board added, it was the addition of gadgets that might take a machine beyond being simply a tractor.

What was at stake was the

Mercy Train Heads South

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A 10-car mercy train, loaded with food and farm implements for Mexican Indians dying of hunger, clanked across the plains and mountains of West Texas toward El Paso and an uncertain future early today.

The train, dispatched from Lafayette, La., to an Indian village south of Chihuahua City, Mexico, left here Friday night on what railway spokesmen called a 13-hour journey to El Paso.

A Southern Pacific Railroad official in El Paso said the general auditor of the Chihuahua and Pacific Railroad was trying to get permits to take the 10 cars across the border. He said if Mexican officials permit the cars to enter Mexico, it may not be before Monday.

But in Mexico, a spokesman for the treasury ministry said the train "will not be permitted to enter Mexico."

The foodstuffs and farm implements were donated by a Louisiana resident after a Roman Catholic priest of the Jesuit order said at least 200 Tarahumara Indians, many of them children, were dying of hunger daily.

The Mexican government said that to allow delivery of the goods would imply that Mexico is not able to care for its own people.

Priest Who Married Pines For Return To His Church

NEW YORK (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest, longing to return to service of the church from which he was barred when he was married a year ago, has disclosed plans for establishing a centre to help others in a similar plight.

"I love the church," said Rev. Anthony J. Girandola of St. Petersburg, Fla. "I believe in the church's doctrine and teaching authority and want to serve her."

But he can't, under present rules. He said "millions of Roman Catholics" — laymen and clergy — are in a kindred predicament and that the projected new centre is aimed at ministering to their needs.

"We're pleading for the church to take us back, to do something," he said.

But in the meantime, he said, the centre, to include a complex of small houses for married priests and their families, as well as a 700-seat chapel, was planned to provide an interim arrangement in their behalf.

"It's an emergency solution until hopefully the church accepts us again," he said, announcing a fund drive for the $3,000,000 project.

ADRIFT BUT HOPEFUL
To be called the Shrine of Hope, the chapel is to be shaped in the form of a ship at sea.

"We're like people adrift in a lifeboat, waiting to be taken back into the church," Father Girandola said. "But while we're outcasts, we can minister to one another, rather than just lie down and give up."

He said there are about 5,000 American Roman Catholic priests under automatic excommunication for being married and about 60,000 in other countries, chiefly in Europe.

Under church law, priests in the Western (Latin) Rite must remain celibate, although some married Protestant ministers have been allowed to enter the Roman Catholic priesthood in Europe, and keep their family status.

In the church's Eastern Rite, priests may marry if they do so prior to ordination. The stricter rule in the West, imposed in the 12th century, is regarded as a practical disciplinary rule, rather than a doctrine.

It has been widely debated in the church in the wake of the second Vatican council.

Joint Service For Churches

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Joint Protestant-Roman Catholic services are being inaugurated at Muhlenberg College, a Lutheran institution.

The united weekly devotionals are described as the first ecumenical venture of its kind on a college campus.

They are to be held each Tuesday morning, and jointly led by a Roman Catholic priest, Rev. James E. Sweeney, of the Cathedral of St. Catherine of Siena here, and Rev. David H. Bremer, a Lutheran, Muhlenberg's chaplain.

After each service, both ministers will meet with students for a discussion period.

The 119-year-old liberal arts college has 1,450 students, about 4 per cent of them Lutheran, seven per cent Roman Catholic, and the rest of other Protestant denominations, or Jewish.

For the services, the revised standard version of the Bible will be used and also the Episcopal (Anglican) Book of Common Prayer, some ancient collects, and devotional guides prepared by the U.S. national and world councils of churches, and endorsed by the Roman Catholic bishops' ecumenical commission.

Western priests who marry, although thereby excommunicated and barred from functioning in the church as a priest, are still regarded as retaining their priesthood, however. It is a lifetime office.

Most of those who marry move to areas where they are unknown, take lay jobs, and keep their priesthood concealed, so as not to cause what some church authorities have called "scandal" to the vocation.

"I don't consider it a scandal," Father Girandola said. "Marriage is no crime."

LIVE IN FEAR
He maintained that church authorities should act to remove the social stigma attached to a married priest, and lift the insistence that they "live in anonymity, in constant fear of discovery."

"The discipline is too harsh," he said. "The church's role should be more as a healing physician that forgives, rather than judges."

Father Girandola, 41, was for 15 years a pastor in Bridgeport, Conn., before he was married last year. He and his wife, Loraine, a registered nurse, now have a baby boy.

For a living he is a public school mathematics teacher in Brandon, Fla., 40 miles from St. Petersburg, where he has already set up a chapel, St. Dismas Centre, to serve excommunicated Catholics, mostly those remarried after divorce.

Rev. Donald J. Bauer, pastor of Corpus Christi Roman Catholic Church in a suburb of Syracuse, N.Y., and a friend of Father Girandola's, said there are "priests all over the world with the same problem."

With the present shortage of priests, he said it seemed incongruous to waste the training and skills invested in priests who become married.

"There is no question that the greatest thing that could be done to increase church vocations would be to permit a married clergy. Most of the seminarians who drop out do so because they want to marry."

Dignitaries More Humble

ROME (Reuters) — Roman Catholic Church dignitaries are gradually taking on a new image — of greater simplicity and humility — Vatican sources said here today.

One bishop, Right Rev. Ernest Green of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, has asked people to stop calling him "my lord" and not to kiss the traditional episcopal ring that he wears.

This is part of the trend set by the recent Vatican council, the sources said, but there is no Vatican ruling on the respect to be shown to bishops.

Another dignity who has dropped the practice of having the episcopal ring kissed is the Archbishop of Turin, Msgr. Michele Pellegrino. He also has discarded the Italian custom of being addressed as "excellency," preferring "father" instead.

Quakers Mail To All Kinds

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of American Quakers, who say they want to give "humanitarian relief to all sides," has mailed packages of medical supplies to Canada destined for the Red Cross organizations of North Viet Nam, the Viet Cong and South Viet Nam.

The Quaker group tried to mail the packages here Monday but U.S. postal officials would accept only the packages to the south, and rejected those headed for North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong. The latter were then readdressed to Canada for transshipment to their destinations.

The 6,700-member New York Quakers group voted last week to test the legality of sending parcels to the North Vietnamese.

A post office department spokesman in Washington said the action did not violate any postal regulations. There was no comment, however, from the justice department.

The postal spokesman also said later mail for North Viet Nam is being accepted and is being handled through Hong Kong. Hong Kong will not accept packages, he said.

SPORT FISHING

By JIM TREADGOLD

The fine fall weather has had the sportsmen out in numbers this past week. Fishing has been slower in general in most lakes than expected due to the persistent sunshininess.

Okanagan Lake has been fair, for kokanee, with far fewer fishermen using the lake of late. Kokanee are in the streams in numbers and are being taken illegally by many kids and some pretty big kids, too.

The conservation officers are kept pretty busy these days, with the opening of hunting and the Kokanee run, but are making regular patrols of the creeks.

Reports from the Dee chain itself have been slow, but some of the outlying lakes are much better. Dan Penske and father of Whitehorn had a good catch at Hidden Lake from 1 1/4 lbs. to 4 1/2 lbs. using the gold flatfish.

A Calgary party fishing at Ruth Lake took 12 nice ones on the Red Carey fly. Mrs. Sexsmith Sr. has had good catches on Wilma Lake. This is the time of season that Mrs. Sexsmith is able to get in some serious fishing and she takes some excellent fish in the outlying lakes and Wilma Lake is one of her favorites.

Vern Hagen of Seattle took 18 fish from 2 to 4 lbs. in two days fishing First Fly Lake.

Report from Sandy Fenwick at Pennask Lake, says some nice fish are being taken by the few using the lake of late. The boat rental is closing this Sunday and Sandy thanks all the fishermen from Kelowna and district who have been such good customers this season.

Postill Lake reports are good, with quite a few fishermen in camp. Nick Krimmer is busy building a new access road the last mile into camp to get away from the wet areas near the lake and he hopes to have it open for next spring.

In my last column I grieved over reporting the large trout Art Day had caught at Shuswap. I credit his brother Fred with the catch. It was a prime 17 1/2 lb. Kamloops trout taken in front of the Shuswap Narrows Lodge and is the largest fish weighted in this season at the lodge.

While the fish are breathing easier due to the reduction in the number of lures in the water, the game has been kept on the move by armies of hunters this past week.

The grouse hunting success has been below expectations with the average bag last weekend around two birds per hunter. Blue grouse are definitely not as plentiful as last season, and with the very dry bush the Willow grouse are not showing up in numbers either.

There have been a few deer and moose taken locally. Ted Zan took a nice bull moose near Bauleau Lake. He was all alone and found it quite a chore getting the animal dressed and cut up so that he could load it into his car. He had quite a bit of blood on his clothes before he was finished.

Another bull was taken at Raymer Lake, I believe by Val Leier and Clarence Fenton took a bull at the waterhole near Westbank. Other moose were seen and Harold Lamoureux saw a spike Elk on the Kithiess near Mountain road, it was on the fast move as hunters had just been shooting at it.

Few deer were taken on the west side of the lake and few reported were taken south of Peachland and managed to pick up a few Blue's. Saw one large flock of Blue's—about 20 at daylight, but goofed it up good, either my shooting was poor in the half light or the pellets wouldn't penetrate the dark. Caesar Turri picked up a small buck near Tamarack Lake.

The west side of the lake produced more bucks. Jack Whittingham and son bagged three bucks in the Joe Rich area and 17 year old John Balfour, son of Hugh, shot a fine four-point buck and a five-point near McCulloch, which made quite a day for him and a proud father even though he himself was skunked. Hugh has evidently trained his son well.

Virgil Willett and son of Winfield took two bucks and 16 grouse on the Commonage. At least it is rumored that it was either the Commonage or near Cherry Creek, which is a favorite spot of Virgil's.

Frank Lanz reported getting a buck at the back of Black Mountain and two were reported taken on the road near Dee Lake.

The largest bag of grouse reported was taken by Roger Simoneau and Ben Schellepe in the Buck Hills area east of Greystoke. This is one of their favorite spots and is rumored that they had 16 birds.

Migratory birds open on Saturday and it is expected that the road at the north end of the airport will be lined with hunters well before daylight, all waiting for a crack at the approximately two to four thousand geese reported on Duck Lake.

It isn't the best shots that get a goose from this annual affair. They may down the goose but it is the best runner that usually ends up with the goose, and I will be there this year with my trusty Browning and running shoes.

It has been said that there are guns at this shoot that kill at 250 yards, at least its good for the ammunition companies and for a few laughs.

Free copies of migratory bird shooting hour schedules available at the store.

Rams, Cardinals Make Bid To Step Out This Weekend

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the weekend Los Angeles Rams and St. Louis Cardinals try to step out of the shadows as true contenders in the National Football League.

The Rams, picked as an also-ran in the Western Conference, take a 2-0 record to Green Bay Sunday to meet the unbeaten Packers, defending NFL champions and Conference favorites.

The Packers have managed only one triumph—6-3 in Milwaukee last season—and one tie against the Rams in the last.

Fresh from victories over Atlanta Falcons and Chicago Bears, the Rams will rely on a stubborn front four on defense and an offense led by Roman Gabriel and Tommy McDonald, the league's leading passer and catcher.

St. Louis, picked third at best in the Eastern Conference, takes a 2-0 record Sunday to Cleveland, where the Cardinals have not lost to the Browns in their last three visits—two victories and a tie.

Quarterback Charley Johnson has led the Cardinals past Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins.

Dallas Cowboys, 1-0, are hopeful their defence can stop high scoring Minnesota Vikings, 0-1-1, while Don Meredith, Bob Hayes and Co. take care of the scoring Sunday.

Tall Texan Rides High

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP)—Jim Hall, a tall Texan who drives so fast he needs a gadget to keep his car from taking off, came back to this road circuit today seeking his second successive Canadian Grand Prix for sports cars.

Hall, a 30-year-old car designer and builder from Midland, seemed the man to beat after he tore two seconds off his own lap record in Friday's qualifying trials. He pushed his Chevy-powered Chaparral around the 2.5-mile circuit in one minute, 22.9 seconds, an average of 106.7 miles an hour.

When he won the Canadian Grand Prix last year, he made it in 1:24.9, a record which stands since lap marks must be set in actual competition.

Hall, one of the few racing drivers to use automatic transmission, has his Chaparral equipped with a "spoiler" which hangs above the head like a parasol. It helps keep his car on the ground when he tears down the back straight at better than 150 m.p.h.

Suspension Seen As Only Answer

VERNON (CP) — The president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said Friday he sees no alternative but to suspend from play elsewhere in Canada any hockey player who joins a team in the newly-formed Canadian Major Junior Hockey League.

Fred Page of Nanaimo said the league, made up of teams from Edmonton, Calgary, Regina and other prairie centres, is not recognized by the CAHA.

In Vernon for the annual meeting of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, Mr. Page said the CAHA executive would meet in Toronto next week to discuss the new league.

About 125 delegates are at attending the B.C. association's meeting.

President Leo Margolis told the opening session Friday night there is a growing administration problem in the BCAHA because of "fantastic" increases in the number of players in the province.

The meeting will last for three days.

Schofield Spurs Dodgers To Top In Pennant Race

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers have a 2 1/2-game lead in the race for the National League pennant and Dick Schofield is the major reason.

The Dodgers were in second place, one half a game behind, when the veteran utility player was purchased two weeks ago from New York Yankees of the American League.

Blades, Totems To Square Off For Kelowna Season's Opening

The Los Angeles Blades and the Seattle Totems square off for Kelowna fans Tuesday as the Western Hockey League exhibition season opens in Memorial Arena.

Action between the two teams, neither of which earned playoff positions in WHL competition last season, starts at 8 p.m.

In spite of their previous showings, both clubs are promising more sparkling performance in the coming season.

Particularly in the camp of the Blades where an agreement with the Chicago Black Hawks has bolstered their ranks with eight players.

Joining the Blades are forwards Norm Johnson, Gerry Brissan, Mel Pearson, Jack Stanfield and Dick Meissner with defencemen Gary Kilpatrick, Jack Hendrickson and Wally Chevrier.

In addition, the Blades traded speedy Willie O'Ree to Portland for winger Tom McVie and goaltender Dave Kelly. However, McVie and Chevrier have been making hold-out noises and are doubtful starters in Kelowna Tuesday.

The game will also give fans a chance to witness the highly-rated efforts of the infamous Howie Young and marks the first appearance of veteran Fern Flaman, the Blades' new coach and general manager.

The Canadian Football League while Hamilton is conceded to have the strongest defence.

It's another matter, however, concerning Sunday's game in Toronto between British Columbia Lions of the WFL and the Argonauts, their last place counterparts in the East.

About all the Lions, 2-6, and the Argos, 1-7, are expected to prove is which club is really Canada's worst.

Complicating matters for both clubs are injuries. Most serious Argos injury is to fullback Bob Swift, through for the year after surgery to ligaments in his right knee.

Coach Bob Shaw hasn't decided if he'll sign back Art Baker, a former Tiger-Cat cut last week by Calgary Stampede of the WFL. Baker is on a five-day trial with Toronto. But the Argos Friday announced they have added guard John Erickson, a Canadian, to the lineup for Sunday's game which starts at 2 p.m. and will be televised on the CTV national network. The game will be Toronto's third in eight days.

Doubtful starters for the Lions are flanker Sonny Homer, bothered by chest pains, and defensive tackle Mike Cacic, since Saskatchewan's offence is regarded as the most potent in the league.

Tonight's game, starting at 8 p.m. EDT and televised nationally by the CTV, is expected to produce plenty of fireworks since Saskatchewan's offence is regarded as the most potent in the league.

Steve Warms Up Well For Stint In Battle Of World Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Steve Barber, Baltimore Orioles' sore-armed southpaw, warmed up for a starting assignment in the World Series by pitching five hitless innings Friday.

And manager Hank Bauer, unwilling to crowd his luck, yanked him at the start of the sixth inning before the Orioles lost 2-0 to California Angels on rookie Charlie Vinson's two-run double in the seventh against reliever Frank Ber-tina. Elsewhere in the American League, Lee Stange pitched a two-hitter as Boston Red Sox edged New York Yankees 2-1; Don Mincher hit a grand-slam homer in Minnesota Twins' 12-4 romp over Detroit Tigers; John Odom's four-hitter pushed Kansas City Athletics past Cleveland Indians 2-0 and Washington Senators downed Chicago White Sox 5-4 on rookie Hank Allen's three-run homer.

Barber plagued by arm trouble, was seeking his first victory since July 6. He struck out six and walked three. Bertina, who has not won a game since May 8, suffered his sixth loss in seven decisions.

Bauer rested Frank Robinson, Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Luis Aparicio and Andy Etchebarren. Dave Johnson had two hits off the Orioles' pitcher Marcelino Lopez and Curt Ble-fary stroked the third wasted triple in the sixth. Tony Conigliaro's two-homer in the first inning backed Stange, who allowed only one hit after the first inning. The loss, pitcher Mel Stottlemyre's 19th of the season, tumbled New York deeper into last place.

A crowd of only 1,400 saw the Yankees lose their 46th home game, one more than they had ever dropped in one season at Yankee Stadium since the park opened in 1923.

Canadian Skating Medals Mostly Sent To Wrong People

OTTAWA (CP)—The 18 medals presented at the Canadian figure skating championships in Peterborough last February mostly went to the wrong people, it was learned here.

Executive manager Hugh Glynn said in an interview the Canadian Figure Skating Association now is trying to unravel "a general mix-up."

It came to light in Vancouver Thursday when Mrs. R. J. Cave complained that her daughter Benita was asked to return two medals for engraving and then was told she could not have them back.

Benita, 16, was given a silver medal for second place in the novice dance event and a bronze medal for third place in the novice ladies free skating event.

The association awards a silver medal for first place, a bronze medal for second place and none for third place.

Somehow at Peterborough, some third-place finishers got bronze medals and runners-up got silver medals, with the winners getting none in some cases.

Glynn said he wrote everyone advising them of the confusion and asked that the medals be returned for proper engraving.

SEEKS MIX-UP CAUSE

He said the mix-up probably had its origin in the association's first Olympic-style presentation.

Previously, only the winner and the runner-up were called to the ice after an event.

This time, an Olympic-style podium was set up on the ice for the three highest point-getters in each event.

Mrs. Cave complained that Benita sent her medals for engraving "in good faith" then was told by Glynn that because of the mix-up the bronze medal, given her for third-place finish, would not be returned. Nothing was said about the silver medal.

Glynn said he advised the Caves the rules don't allow a medal for a third-place finish.

However, he said the mix-up is so general that the association board "may very well" decide to give third place medals.

Benita, entitled under the rules to one bronze medal for her second-place finish, might somehow wind up with two bronze medals, he said.

Saskatoon Girl Rides To Lead

WINNIPEG (CP)—Valerie Johnson of Saskatoon moved in front of 20 other riders as the Canadian championship horse trials opened Friday.

Miss Johnson gave an almost perfect performance in the dressage, first event in the three-day competition which will decide Canada's equestrian team for the 1967 Pan-American Games in Winnipeg and the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City.

David Sonshine of Toronto, riding Hyllis, placed second among riders from Ontario to British Columbia. Aster Hodgson of Toronto, riding Kalmar, was third.

An 18-mile, 42-fence endurance race is scheduled today and the trials end Sunday with stadium jumping.

Bonus Baby Paying Off

By JIM CRERAR Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bobby Orr, highly-touted bonus baby, has played only one game with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League and already he's paying dividends.

Orr slipped a pass to Pit Martin mid-way through the third period Friday night in London, Ont., to give the Bruins a 1-1 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs in the first pre-season game of the year. The goal wiped out a lead Jim Pappin gave the Leafs in the first period before a sellout crowd of 5,496.

Chicago Black Hawks, meanwhile, received another setback when defenceman Elmer Vasko made it emphatic he doesn't intend to play this year.

Vasko, a 220-pound veteran of 10 years in the NHL, joined Hawk goaltender Glenn Hall in the retired ranks. Vasko said simply he had enough after taking his wife's advice and trying his hand at the team's practice sessions in Chicago for a couple of days. That was enough to convince him he was better off at his St. Catharines, Ont., home.

He added he had several plans for the future, but none of them include hockey.

Hall announced earlier this week from his farm near Edmonton that he is quitting because he's tired of hockey.

Montreal Canadiens, defending Stanley Cup champions, opened drills in Montreal and Hull, Que., Friday but most of the activity concerned manager Sam Pollock, who was busy signing players.

Pollock signed defenceman Ted Harris two days ago, then Friday added forwards Dave Balon, Dick Duff, Ralph Backstrom, Leon Rochefort and defenceman Terry Harper.

"You might say I'm pretty well satisfied," he said. "I didn't have one of them report this year with a suit problem."

In Kingston, Ont., where New York Rangers are working out, Bob Plager was released from manager-coach Emile Francis's doghouse.

Plager was fined $200 earlier this week for reporting to camp two days late. But he sought leniency on the grounds he had to appear as a witness in a court case in his home town of Kapuskasing, Ont.

Francis relented after learning that the defenceman assisted police in making an arrest. He cancelled the fine.

"Maybe we'll have to give him a medal," he said.

In Detroit, where the Red Wings are working out, Ray Cullen, 25-year-old centre drafted from the Rangers, broke his right hand behind the knuckles in a player collision and will be out three weeks.

In exhibition play tonight, the Rangers take on Omaha of the Central Professional League in Kingston while the Bruins tackle Oklahoma City Blazers of the CPHL in Oshawa. Toronto plays Rochester Americans of the American League Sunday in Peterborough.

Cubs Saved From Shutout By 12-12 Tie In OMFL Action

A wild 95-yard punt return and touchdown by defensive safety Brock Aynsley, broke open final minute scoring for the Kelowna Cubs Friday and saved them from a shutout disaster at the hands of the Vernon Panthers, in Okanagan Mainline Football League action.

The two clubs battled to a 12-12 deadlock with both majors coming in the dying minutes of the last quarter. The Panthers had picked up their unconverted majors in the second and third quarters of a fairly unglamorous game.

But Aynsley, a 16-year-old grade 11 student, scooped up a rolling ball which had first been fumbled and galloped down the sidelines to keep the Panthers from a shutout.

Even then, Elks Stadium fans were not giving the Cubs any odds on success when Doug Pettman grabbed a screen pass and raced 25 yards for the second touchdown.

Neither were converted for the extra point which would have meant victory.

Abel Looks Over Rookie List And Crosses Out 14 Names

DETROIT (CP)—Coach Sid Abel of Detroit Red Wings looked over the rookies in camp and reluctantly drew a pencil through the names of 14 amateurs.

But he made certain he didn't break up the Faulkner brothers from Bishop's Falls, Nfld.

Alex is the light, fast centre trying a comeback in the National Hockey League; Jack is his huskier kid brother who claims he is a left winger but who has been impressing Abel as a centre.

"When Alex called me and said he wanted to try a comeback, I was all for it," Abel said.

"Look at it this way—he has experience and that is something invaluable. We have players just trying to enter pro ranks. Alex can show them a few tricks."

"He's a worker and that brother Jack follows in the same tradition. He looks big enough to take care of himself out there and when I made the first cut of 14 amateurs, I made sure that Jack Faulkner was staying with us. I like both of them, but it is too early to tell where they will be assigned in our organization. But I want to do my best to keep both of them in our system."

Said Alex:

"It's great to be back and it can't be two seasons that I have been away. I don't feel two years older."

Alex was 30 last May. He had a full campaign with the Wings in the 1962-63 season and sparkled in the Stanley Cup playoffs. The next winter he decided he wanted to stay put for awhile after seeing service with the Wings, Pittsburgh Hornets of the AHL and Cincinnati of the Central Professional League.

So he went back to playing with Conception Cee Bees, where older brother George was coach.

Then this summer Alex began thinking of the NHL again.

"I just love the game. I want to prove I can be a pro again."

He brought along brother Jack, five-foot-11 and 170 pounds, who has been playing in the Eastern Amateur League.

Jack is the property of New Haven.

Alex says there has been no recurrence of the knee and arm injuries that plagued him in the past.

"I've honestly felt good and a little better than expected. I played golf and soccer when I was off the skates and that could have helped."

Whatever did it, Alex has his scoring eye back—he has banged in four goals during workouts and has shown Abel a deft touch around the net.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Another day in which it would be advisable to stay close to the home front. Personal relationships will be more or less in an unsettled state, and association with mere acquaintances or strangers could be far from satisfactory.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that all your energies and talents should be under fine stimuli now, though results of your efforts may not be evident until October 31st. With the exception of November, March and early April, both job and financial prospects look excellent over the long run with especially good boosts along these lines indicated during the first half of February, late April, the first week in May, late June and next August. Look forward, therefore, and start planning for the fine success which can be yours within the next year.

Personal, domestic and sentimental interests should prosper for most of this new year.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Planetary restrictions of the past few days begin to lift now, but in most things it would still be well to "go it alone" and not to expect too much cooperation from others. Be realistic and objective in your aspirations and do not strive for the unreasonable.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, the next 12 months should see many of your goals realized, especially those dealing with occupational advancement and financial betterment. Efforts put forth on both these fronts between now and late October (an excellent period for all Librans), should bring highly gratifying results, in various stages, during early February, late April, the first week in May, late June and next August. Do avoid extravagance and/or speculation in November, however; also in March and the first two weeks of next April.

Home and family interests will be governed by generally good aspects during most of the year ahead and in mid-1967, you should find yourself in an exceptionally stimulating period where romance, travel and social activities are concerned. Sentimental interests will also be star-blessed in October of this year.

A child born on this day will be studious and sensitive; will also be endowed with fine perception of artistic values.

SIX WOMEN

Die In Crash

DWIGHT, Ill. (AP) — Six women, four of them registered nurses, were killed Thursday when two cars carrying a total of nine women collided near here.

Six nurses were in one automobile en route to Kankakee to collect blood donations. Three women in the second vehicle were on a shopping trip.

The multiple fatality accident was the second in northern Illinois this week. Tuesday, five school boys and the driver of the truck carrying them home died in a truck-train collision at Eldena, 75 miles northwest of Dwight.

TRY AND STOP ME

SHOULD you be contemplating the capture of a porcupine in the near future, the government of Ontario, Canada, has issued a bulletin that has some invaluable advice for you.

"The best way to bag the creature," advised the author of this bulletin (with what I presume was a perfectly straight face), "is to wait until he is in the open. Then, watching for his slapping tail, rush in quickly and pop a large washtub over him. In this way, you'll have something to sit on while you plan your next move." Porcupine hunters of the world: Forward march!

Insider's report from Cairo, Egypt?

"For 5,000 years, the Egyptians were the world's most accomplished tomb robbers. Now, with all the known Pharaonic tombs relieved of their treasures, the thieves have turned their singular talents to museum robbery...and with spectacular success."

"In conducting an inventory, the first in 80 years of the treasures housed in the Cairo Museum, the distinguished archaeologist Dr. Selim Hassan found that some 23,000 valuable objects were not in their accustomed places. Tutankhamen's golden scepter led the list of missing items. At Dr. Hassan's suggestion, the museum's first step toward safeguarding its collection was to fire 140 museum guards suspected of selling the more portable treasures to foreign visitors."

"The evening my bride cooked her first dinner for me, I choked on a tomato she'd been getting..." Woody Allen.

5. In Memoriam

WILDEMAN — In memory of our beloved husband and father who passed away Sept. 24, 1965.
A year has passed since he has gone.
To meet our Lord above.
Though times are hard,
the going rough,
We carry still the love,
That he brought to his family
dear
In all his years of life;
A love of God and all that's
His,
Come pleasant times or strife.
We thank him for this gift of love
That he has planted in us.
For with this love we'll carry on
Though he's no longer with us
Our hearts so ache to have him near,
But this can never be.
Until the day we reunite
In God's great company.
—From beloved wife, Conna,
and children, Dick, Marlene
and Karen

REGGIN — Marjorie — In loving memory of our loved one who passed away September 25, 1959.
We will all remember you dear,
As we missed you these last seven years,
For God knew best as you're at rest.
We still love you with all our best.
—With love, Mother, Dad, sisters, relations and dear friends

GRUYE — In loving memory of a dear husband, John G. Gruye,
who passed away Sept. 24, 1963.
I have only your memory
dear husband,
To remember my whole life
through
But the sweetness lingers
forever.
As I treasure the image of you.
—Sadly missed by your wife,
Ida

6. Card of Thanks

WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR sincere thanks and appreciation to our many neighbors, friends, and relatives for their numerous acts of kindness during our recent bereavement.
They were of great comfort to us in our loss of a loving mother, grandmother, and great grandmother. We also wish to thank Mrs. France, Moir, Boxers, Tisdale, Holmes, and the staff of the Kelowna General Hospital. Our sincere thanks to
Rev. Fr. Martin of St. Pius X
Church, the ladies of St. Peter's Circle, the Senior Citizens, and her many friends at the Plea-santvale Homes, the ladies of the Order of the Eastern Star and Day's Funeral Home for their untiring efforts and kindness extended to us.

The family of Mrs. Caroline
Brandel

Rent Stability Prevails In Only A Few Districts

CP CROSS-CANADA SURVEY
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If you're an apartment-dweller who has signed a new lease in the last six months, chances are you had your rent raised.

If you moved from one building to another this year, it's possible you're paying as much as 25 per cent more than the previous tenant.

If you live in a city and the landlord didn't raise the rent when he had a chance, you're in a minority.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that rent stability for apartments has prevailed in only a few cities during the last year.

Examples are St. John's, Nfld., Charlottetown, Saint John, N.B., Ottawa, Winnipeg and Regina, where increases on the average have been moderate.

But this doesn't mean rents are necessarily lower in these cities than in those where there have been sharper increases in the last 12 months.

Without climbing into the luxury class, you can pay $125 a month for an average one-bedroom apartment in St. John's.

In Sarnia, Ont., where some rents are up as much as 25 per cent, the average is $125 a month for a one-bedroom apartment.

And if the building is a new one, it cost more to construct than one built several years ago, with the result that rents are higher.

Tenants are grumbling, of course, but in the absence of a wide choice of empty apartments—some areas report the vacancy rate as low as two per cent—there isn't much to be done.

The spread is about $80 to $90 in Saint John and Charlottetown, $85 to $90 in Regina, around $125 in Ottawa.

OLD AREAS CHEAPER
The pattern of rent increases is not necessarily uniform for all parts of a specific city. In Quebec City, for example, rents in older areas have remained stable because of government controls.

But allowing for such regional exceptions, rising rents are fairly general, with most cities reporting increases in the last year.

SWIM UNDER CHANNEL
DOVER, England (Reuters)—Six Belgian paratroopers conquered the English Channel Friday—swimming together in frogmen's suits just below the surface. The men completed the swim in 15 hours 22 minutes. A seventh man had to give up because of acute seasickness after seven hours in the water.

the five-to-15-per-cent range for the last year.

The reasons are varied. In some areas tight money has curbed apartment construction, leaving growing population to vie for dwindling vacancies.

Landlords report costs rising. They may have to pay them can do except sign a lease for the higher rent figure.

Several agents suggested that the absence of any real protest reflects a conditioning brought about by higher prices generally.

It is possible to get a bargain on rent if you happen to live in the right place. For example, some large buildings on the outskirts of Ottawa have had difficulty renting.

Some have dropped rents below cost in order to fill the apartments. But even there increases are likely before the end of 1966.

HOUSES SCARCE
While the right apartment is usually available if you are willing to pay the asking price, it's not that easy with rental housing. A spokesman for the Halifax-Dartmouth real estate board says land values are so high it's not profitable to build rental homes.

This is apparently the situation in other cities as well. The result is that a three-bedroom rental house in a reasonably good neighborhood is difficult to find. If you get one, you can figure on paying anything from $110 to $300 a month.

One city where rents have remained fairly steady during the last year is Montreal (where you can get a one-bedroom apartment in a middle-class building for $110 to $120) but this doesn't apply to new buildings.

They're putting in such extras as saunas, party rooms and swimming pools and they're offering maid service, with the result that they must go at a substantially higher rent.

With rental houses hard to find, some Torontonians are turning to the increasingly popular townhouses and row dwellings. But they aren't inexpensive. The average rent is $175 to $225 and this is 10 to 15 per cent higher than last year.

Winnipeg, where one agency estimates rents are going up 2.5 to five per cent annually, is an example of a city with a low vacancy rate—4.3 per cent in the downtown area and two per cent elsewhere.

Another is Calgary where 18 months ago there was a 12-to-13-per-cent vacancy rate. Now it's less than four.

BUILDING SLOWS DOWN
The slowdown of construction is evident in Edmonton where 52 apartment buildings containing 997 units were begun in the last year.

toon residents must pay about $95 for a similar building.

One indication of change in the rent picture is provided by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics rent index. Taking the level of rents in August, 1950, as equalling 100, it shows a rise in the last year of 4.8—3.1—from 143.6 to 146.7 in Halifax, and 2.6—from 147.2 to 150.4 in Toronto; 149.8 in Calgary.

Montreal was up 1.7 to 154.8. Saint John, N.B., 1.5 to 157.8. Vancouver 1.4 to 143.7. St. John's, Nfld., 1.1 to 118.3. Edmonton 1.0 to 128. Saskatchewan 0.8 to 130.9. Ottawa 0.7 to 155.1. Regina 0.7 to 132.3. and Winnipeg 0.3 to 141.3.

However, the DBS index covers only accommodation that rented for $110 a month or less in 1958. And rental agents in several cities say the inclusion of higher-priced accommodation would significantly alter the index of increases.
